

---

Abstract

This master's thesis aims at comparing theoretical fundamentals with their corresponding practical applications as regards special withdrawal in case of alcohol dependence. By means of various guideline-based expert interviews multifaceted insights were gained into practical and applied treatment methods. Through a subsequent analysis and comparison of findings discrepancies between theory and practice could be pointed out in relation to the topic-based S-3-guideline.